Catholicism redux

As most know, I was raised Catholic. I served mass and all that. I loved the devotion and the message of peace and reconcilation. These messages have stayed with me and guide my life even though I haven’t been to a church for quite some time. I have found that the spirit has many guises but the message is eternal. I see the eternal everywhere. I continue to follow the path, and try every day to be a better man. Some days I am successful.

But I digress. All this to say that this new Pope, Francis, is quite interesting. Evidently even atheists are welcome now. How is this for a message of peace and reconciliation?

Merry Christmas

Source: https://www.idonthaveacoolname.com/catholicism-redux/