

Data Vulnerabilities

Statistics Canada data servers have been offline for a few days. At first there was some confusion since I assumed it was something on my end but a note was put up at the STC site saying that it was due to an “overabundance” of caution. I have been following the Log4J vulnerability, called Log4Shell. Not confirmed but since AWS and other cloud servers are on the list in Github so is this what they are cautious about?
