

early Kubrick

I really enjoyed The Killing last night. This early Kubrick film from 1956 was fantastic! It had an interesting narrative structure, skipping back and forth from character to character back and forth in time as they plan to rob a racetrack. Great characters! The pacing of the horserace in an early scene must have been great on the big screen in a theatre. I hadn't seen that Kubrick film before but his budgets grew from this early gem.

On another note, my hallway floor is now 75% complete. I will post images when finished! My buddy Darren is great with renovations so I am lucky to be getting such great work! ☐☐

The weather is turning cold and it is damp. I really noticed it this morning as I went to the gym. Scary stuff!

20131022-181709.jpg

Source: <https://www.idonthaveacoolname.com/early-kubrick/>