

Global instability and rising food prices

The globalization of food production and distribution have led to a dramatic rise in food prices in many places around the globe. This 2011 paper elaborates both a model to understand the connection between food prices and political instability and shows empirical results from international data.

Source: <https://www.idonthaveacoolname.com/global-instability-and-rising-food-prices/>