

Hot yoga, and the Return to Work

I have tried very hard not to look at any of my camera photos. But after a really good hot yoga class, I took a look to confirm the import of all 14k images. I also backed up all of my iPhone photos and videos. I created a new catalog on a new drive that I picked up for just this purpose and brought everything into Lightroom. Here are just a few from the Nikon D300 with the Tokina 11-16mm.

I am still very jet lagged, and although I will go in to the gym and office tomorrow, trying to get back to my regular schedule, Im not sure how long I can last!
