Rainy cottage weekend

The weather is wet and cold and I love it!

My friend RP moved into her new house this weekend so I am very happy for her… so happy that I decided to steal one of her photos that she took on a recent trip with her sister to use as my new header… i hope she doesn't mind □□

I purchased the Panasonic 100-300m telephoto to get some photos of wildlife while kayaking but no luck so far this weekend. I have, however, been reading and last night I did get a chance to take some shots of a beautiful sunset! And while not the sharpest lens or the brightest lens, I think it did a pretty good job! So here are some images from last night:
