Snowflakes

My friend KE sent me a link to a Russian photographer that does macro work with snowflakes. So I decided to give it a go. Needless to say, it is quite a challenge. By the time I finally got my tripod set up correctly I realized that my batteries in my shutter were dead and so I switched over to the timer on my camera. All the while my fingers got colder and colder. By the time I snapped a few, the night had set.

Next time I will use a focus rail, earlier in the day. I will dress warmer and get fresh batteries □□

20131217-170543.jpg

20131217-170559.jpg

20131217-170627.jpg

20131217-170640.jpg

Source: https://www.idonthaveacoolname.com/snowflakes/