

Some photos from the recent months

The deer below are from Norway Bay, below are London from last month. And while the diesel smell wasn't ideal, London's art galleries, architecture and food were outstanding. I kept popping in to the National Gallery to admire the Crivelli and Fiorentino paintings. The Tate Britan had an amazing show with paintings from post war Britain focused on representations of the human body called Human, All too Human that i found fascinating. The Turners as well at both.

I was most pleased to see the Kusama's at the Tate Modern and loved the Tacita Dean exhibit(s). And the curry!

Source: <https://www.idonthaveacoolname.com/some-photos-from-the-recent-months/>