Time stacking

An interesting photographic technique called “time stacking” here.

Essentially it is a technique derived from experimenting with time lapse whereby the photographer “stacks” images from a sequence of time interval photographs.

Source: https://www.idonthaveacoolname.com/time-stacking/