

Weekly wrap up

I mentioned a few posts back about the early roots of my love of movie title design. I happened to run across this post on Open Culture here. It is called The Film Before The Film. Enjoy!

Some really cool long exposure wake boarding in the dark with glow sticks photos here.

An incredible time lapse from New Zealand here. And a very impressive portfolio of work by the artist Bevan Percival as well. Check out the spectacular lenticular cloud time lapse here. Incredible work. I am totally envious of this stuff!

And while we're talking about time lapse, here is my all time favorite, always worth a watch is The Mountain. The music, from Ludovico Einaudi – “Nuvole bianche” is excellent too!

And, finally, from The New York Review of Books, an excellent article on Japanese photographers Hiroshi Hamaya and Kansuke Yamamoto and their documentary photography.

Source: <https://www.idonthaveacoolname.com/weekly-wrap-up/>